

LOYOLA
UNIVERSITY
CHICAGO

CrossCampus

April 3, 1998

Information for students from faculty and administrators

Focus On: Registration

Profile: Konstantin Läufer

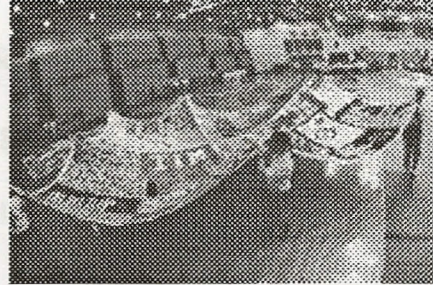

News

Current Events

Calendar

Back Issues

Feedback

Loyola's Unity in Diversity celebration included the Names Project AIDS Memorial Quilt at the Gentile Center, LSC.

Loyola Publications

Submit

About

Home

Provide feedback on the Touch-Tone Registration system

Loyola's new student information system debuts this month, and the office of registration and records is asking all students to provide feedback on its use through an on-line survey. Undergraduate students may fill out the survey after completing Summer I term registration (beginning April 13) and fall registration (beginning April 20).

"At this crucial time, feedback from students is very important to us," said Director of Registration and Records Helen Hays-Thomas. "The surveys will help us monitor the new system closely and improve its efficiency." Hays noted that a new set of registration instructions is being published in every printed schedule of classes booklet.

The upgraded registration and records system will provide new benefits to students registering for classes:

- New Touch-Tone equipment and an increase in phone lines should provide faster access.
- A new "shop" feature lets students find open classes that fit within their existing registrations.
- Students may register for multiple terms with one phone call.
- Verification letters for enrollment, degrees and attendance will be electronically generated.

For a paper copy of the survey, stop by the office of registration and records in Room 330, Granada Centre, LSC, or Room 504, Lewis Towers, WTC. For more information, call (312)